

FREE Transmitters

Over the last fifteen years, we have really enjoyed working with several researchers who carried out projects involving school children. In 2001, as part of our tenth anniversary celebration, we sponsored four schools by donating free transmitters for the kids to carry out a project. Below are some photos from our archives.

Are you involved with your local middle or high school and wish to involve the students in bird tracking? Here is your chance to foster a love of biology by giving students an introduction to this state-of-the-art technology and an opportunity to experience field research firsthand.

As part of our fifteenth anniversary celebration, we would like to donate a couple of transmitters for you to carry out a school project. The selection of the recipient will be based upon the scope of the project, the degree of student involvement and the benefit to the children.

The rules and application will be posted on our website on June 1, 2006. The deadline for application is September 30, 2006. The winner will be announced in our winter newsletter.

Students of Liberty Bell Junior-Senior High School release a Cooper's hawk from Chelan Ridge, Washington State in 2001.

Students at Yankeetown Middle School, in Levy County, Florida map the travels of swallow-tailed kites.

Students from Palmerston North Girls High School, New Zealand, studied the New Zealand falcon in 2001.

In May 1999, students from Osceola County gathered at The Great Blue Heron breeding colony to release 3 birds fitted with satellite transmitters.
